2013 AWARDS

SAA award recipients are selected by individual committees of SAA members—one for each award. The Board of Directors wishes to thank the award committees for their hard work and excellent selections, and to encourage any members who have an interest in a particular award to volunteer to serve on a future committee.

PRESIDENTIAL RECOGNITION AWARD

Recipient: Diane Gifford-Gonzalez

The President of the Society for American Archaeology presents this presidential award to Diane Gifford Gonzalez in recognition of her outstanding contributions to the Historically Underrepresented Groups Scholarship (HUGS) program and for her leadership in the development of a high quality proposal from the SAA to NSF to obtain funding for the program.

PRESIDENTIAL RECOGNITION AWARD

Recipients: Susan Kane, Cori Wegener, Tim Melancon, and Serena Bellew

During the multinational Operation Unified Protector, Libya, there was almost no damage to the country's extraordinary archaeological sites. The preservation of these irreplaceable resources was the direct result of the efforts of a group of individuals. Working closely together, they located and organized information on the sites and provided these to the operations planners. Individuals who played key roles were:

Susan Kane, as an archaeologist with detailed knowledge of Libya, recognized her information could be valuable for military planning in terms of site protection. Prof. Kane took the initiative to work with colleagues around the world to put together and provide a high quality, comprehensive data set.

Cori Wegener was the first serving Monuments Officer since World War II. Her tireless efforts in forming the US Committee of the Blue Shield and in encouraging ratification of the 1954 Hague Convention by the US Senate made possible the network of professionals used to ensure that the information provided by the archaeologists made it to the organizations at Defense and State who could use the information wisely.

Tim Melancon made sure that the cultural property data made it to the critical offices both at US DoD and NATO for operational planning and implementation. Serena Bellew's work on behalf of cultural property protection in her role as the Deputy Preservation Officer at the US Department of Defense has contributed to a climate where the issue is recognized as a critical component for responsible operations in host nation settings.

PRESIDENTIAL RECOGNITION AWARD*Recipient: Melinda A. Zeder

The President of the Society for American Archaeology presents this presidential award to Mindy Zeder in recognition of her outstanding contributions in organizing and leading the Society's and other archaeological organizations positive response to the National Geographic television show "Diggers" and for her efforts in organizing the 2012 national meetings presidential forum on archaeology and the press.

GENE STUART AWARD*Recipient: Julian Smith

Julian Smith, an award-winning author and writer for American Archaeology, has earned the 2013 Gene S. Stuart Award for his responsible and entertaining writing about the fascinating capabilities and inherent problems associated with virtual archaeology. "Virtually Recreating the Past" presents an ethically responsible and engaging view on the new methods being utilized in archaeology and the diverse ways by which both professionals and the public can use and benefit from the technology. His article describes many different virtual methods, including the use of 3D modeling on traditional sod houses in the Canadian arctic, an interactive educational game based on a Russian fur-trading outpost on the Northern California coast, and laser scanning of buildings at the Maya site of Copan. Julian Smith has delivered to the public a well-balanced article detailing the possibilities and benefits of virtual archaeology that all archaeologists can respect.

DIENJE KENYON FELLOWSHIP*Recipient: Shoshana RosenbergFRED PLOG MEMORIAL FELLOWSHIP*Recipient: Katherine DunganDOUGLAS KELLOGG FELLOWSHIP*Recipient: Craig FertelmesARTHUR C. PARKER SCHOLARSHIP FOR ARCHAEOLOGICAL TRAINING FOR NATIVE AMERICANS AND NATIVE HAWAIIANS*Recipient: Rebecca Heidenreich (The Navajo Nation)NSF SCHOLARSHIPS FOR ARCHAEOLOGICAL TRAINING FOR NATIVE AMERICANS AND NATIVE HAWAIIANS*Recipient: Alyssa Christine Bader (Alaska Native)Recipient: Dylan Ray Jennings (Bad River Band of Lake Superior Ojibwe)Recipient: Susan MaryLouise Peone (The Colville Confederated Tribe of Indians)SAA NATIVE AMERICAN UNDERGRADUATE ARCHAEOLOGY SCHOLARSHIP*Recipient: Chi R. Woodrich (Bad River Band of Lake Superior Ojibwe)

SAA NATIVE AMERICAN GRADUATE ARCHAEOLOGY SCHOLARSHIP*Recipient: Davina Two Bears (The Navajo Nation)DISSERTATION AWARD*Recipient: Amanda Logan

Dr. Amanda Logan is the 2013 recipient of the Dissertation Award. This clearly written dissertation incorporates archaeological, ethnobotanical, ethnographic, and historical evidence to address change in foodways over the past 1000 years in Banda, west-central Ghana. Countering the frequent claim that African societies are in a permanent condition of food deficit, Logan illustrates how the culinary process is indicative of agentive investment at each stage of activity, from farming to cooking to consumption. The "Colombian exchange" brought many new foods to West Africa in particular, some of which appear to have been quite quickly adopted (e.g., tobacco) and others which only became widely used staples under conditions of post-slavery economic stress and British colonial practices of labor management and taxation (e.g., maize). Emphasizing the many stages of decisionmaking in food use, Logan writes eloquently about food and foodways while incorporating theory from a variety of disciplines to discuss the role of memory, gender dynamics, and migrations in creating new culture complexes.

BOOK AWARD: SCHOLARLY CATEGORY*Recipient: Elizabeth Arkush

Elizabeth Arkush's Hillforts of the Ancient Andes: Colla Warfare, Society, and Landscape is the ideal combination of new data and relevant theory with connections and implications for larger anthropological issues of statecraft and warfare. She reviews ethnohistoric evidence on the Colla people of the southern Andes and anthropological literature on warfare before presenting results of her work in data-rich chapters. The use of cutting-edge technologies in aerial survey and GPS mapping complement traditional archaeological techniques and analyses to investigate the placement, building, and motivations for building hillforts. Her comparative chapter on fractured landscapes and fortification presents a model to explain divergent regional histories and trajectories of ancient complex societies based on warfare. In short, Dr. Arkush generates significant insights into the role of violence in shaping political organization and regional landscapes for regional specialists and those working beyond the Andes.

BOOK AWARD: PUBLIC AUDIENCE CATEGORY*Recipient: Patrick Kirch

Patrick Kirch's A Shark Going Inland Is My Chief: The Island Civilization of Ancient Hawaii is a superbly written book for the layperson and scholar alike. Dr. Kirch explores a fundamental archaeological question – the emergence of divine kings and states – using accessible language and great storytelling. He draws upon half a century's worth of archaeological experience in Hawaii and the Pacific to seamlessly weave together archaeological research, traditional knowledge and stories, and personal anecdotes to tell the tales of ancient Hawaii and the Hawaiians, from the initial colonization of the island archipelago by Lapita people from Polynesia through contact with the European world. Perhaps more important, Dr. Kirch keeps archaeology as the backbone of the narrative while skillfully combining other sources of knowledge about ancient Hawaii in this entertaining and insightful book.

AWARD FOR EXCELLENCE IN ARCHAEOLOGICAL ANALYSIS*Recipient: Gayle Fritz

Gayle Fritz has earned the SAA Award for Excellence in Archaeological Analysis for her lifetime commitment to furthering the theoretical frameworks and standards of analysis of paleoethnobotany in an ongoing effort to understand the origins of crop domestication in the Americas. Her work is foundational in demonstrating the theoretical interrelationships between paleoethnobotanical analyses and anthropological questions of gender, feasting, migration, and status. She was central to demonstrating that eastern North America harbored an independent center of domestication. Always with an eye on and deep respect for data, Gayle Fritz brings high and innovative standards of method and technique to her work, whether in the field or the laboratory, and has influenced multiple generations of paleoethnobotanists, as both teacher and mentor. She continues to expand her own horizons through research on crop domestication in Central Asia. Gayle Fritz's career embodies the primacy of data, centered in high level analyses, to archaeology.

AWARD FOR EXCELLENCE IN CULTURAL RESOURCE MANAGEMENT*Recipient: Henry D. Wallace

Henry D. Wallace has earned the SAA Excellence in Cultural Resources Management Award for his exceptional and pivotal research on the Hohokam of southern Arizona. His 32 years of research, from directing numerous survey and excavation projects, has resulted in a regional perspective and refinement of temporal and dynamic changes in Hohokam settlement patterns over time. Some highlights of his research include building a chronology of rock art styles; ceramic research that has allowed the refinement of chronological intervals to a generational scale in the Hohokam region; and understanding how village formation and community structure change through time and across large regional scales. His research in CRM has enabled a broad and insightful view and understanding of the Hohokam world, their social organization, settlement structure, patterns of political leadership, and ritual influence, deriving from research that goes far beyond a simple view of the archaeological record.

CRABTREE AWARD*Recipient: Edward and Diane Stasack

Edward and Diane Stasack are role models for avocational archaeologists dedicated to serving archaeology and the public. Like Don Crabtree, they have been drawn to a particular material aspect of the past, in this case rock art, and through their enthusiasm for this class of material, they have expanded the realm of what we know. The Stasacks have been recording rock art in Hawai'i and Arizona for several decades, producing more than 50 reports, publications, and presentations on more than 80 sites. This massive effort continues today. They introduced many new methodologies for recording rock art in Hawai'i, and their inventories include not just images but the microenvironments in which the petroglyphs were placed, rises and depressions, cracks, and viewsapes for each petroglyph. The Stasacks have trained students, volunteers, and staff at various institutions in their methods. The enormous database that they have assembled informs their own research and will inform that of others in the future.

THE FRYXELL AWARD FOR INTERDISCIPLINARY RESEARCH*Recipient: Anthony F. Aveni

Anthony F. Aveni has earned the Society for American Archaeology's Fryxell Award for Interdisciplinary Research (Earth Sciences) based on his prominent role in developing the interdisciplinary fields of archaeoastronomy and cultural astronomy, as well as his service to the profession through scholarship, student training, and public dissemination. Dr. Aveni's extraordinary contributions to archaeology have included the integration of the scientific and humanistic studies of astronomical principles in ancient calendars, record keeping, urban planning, architectural design, and cosmologies. He has undertaken fieldwork in Mesoamerica, the Andes, the American Southwest, Italy, Israel, and other parts of the globe, often incorporating student training through study groups run through his long-standing home institution, Colgate University. The methodologies that Anthony Aveni has developed and taught to generations of students for rigorously testing astronomical assertions within the cultural framework of anthropological archaeology represent a most laudable contribution to the field.

AWARD FOR EXCELLENCE IN LATIN AMERICAN AND CARRIBEAN ARCHAEOLOGY*Recipient: Luis Guillermo Lumbreras Salcedo

Luis Guillermo Lumbreras Salcedo has earned the Award for Excellence in Latin American and Caribbean Archaeology 2013 for his contributions to the practice and institutional development of Latin American archaeology and to the construction and dissemination of archaeological knowledge. His outstanding research in Peru has provided an important model for theoretical and methodological approaches elsewhere and has inspired many generations of colleagues and students in the Americas. It is clear that he has been a highly influential and visionary leader of Andean archaeology. The breadth and depth of the impacts stemming out of his theoretical and substantive works are historic and without comparison among his Andean and Andeanist contemporaries. He is one of the few archaeologists who has developed theoretical views that challenge and offer viable alternatives to the traditional paradigms. His ideas have transcended political boundaries. His book, Archaeology as a Social Science, has been one of the most influential writings in Latin America and beyond. He has served to bridge the Andean and Andeanist intellectual traditions.

LIFETIME ACHIEVEMENT AWARD*Recipient: Henry Wright

Henry Wright is the 2013 recipient of the SAA Lifetime Achievement Award. In his career, he has made transformative contributions to archaeological theory and method, and has conducted important research in North America, Mesopotamia, Africa, and China. He exemplifies the highest qualities of enduring scholarship, teaching, service, and outreach, both nationally and internationally. Henry Wright is the consummate field archaeologist, always working with strong theoretical engagement. His fieldwork has focused on the emergence of the world's earliest states, although he has also investigated a wide range of other topics. Henry Wright's contributions to scholarship have been acknowledged by a MacArthur Fellowship in 1993, election to the National Academy of Sciences in 1994, and a Gold Medal for Distinguished Archaeological Achievement from the Archaeological Institute of America in 2009. At the University of Michigan, he was awarded a Collegiate Professorship in 2001 and the Albert C. Spaulding Distinguished University Professorship in 2006.

A WORD ABOUT THE SESSIONS

The sessions that make up the bulk of the program fall within four categories:

Forum—An interactive format organized around a tightly focused theme. Formal presentations are kept to a minimum to encourage discussion between presenters and audience.

General Session—Consists of Posters, Contributed Papers (15 minutes), or Research Reports (15 minutes), each submitted individually by its author(s). Presentations are grouped together by the program chair around a particular theme, usually geographic or methodological. Session chairs are designated by the program chair.

Symposium—Generally, a group of 15-minute presentations on a well-defined theme submitted together by an organizer. The organizer may or may not also chair the Symposium. Also includes poster presentations submitted as a group and organized around a single theme.

Electronic Symposium—A discussion format in which the organizer posts the papers on the web at least one month before the meeting. No papers are read at electronic symposium as it is assumed that attendees will have read the material beforehand. Generally a few minutes summary of the papers are the introduction to the two-hour discussion session.

Any of these sessions may be "sponsored" and/or "invited." The designation "sponsored" indicates the support an SAA committee, or an organization outside SAA. The designation "invited" reflects a special status and role within the meeting, as defined by the Program Committee Chair. All sponsored and invited sessions are subject to review by the Program Committee, as are all other submissions, and are subject to the three-role rule. Because numerous committees wish to sponsor sessions, the Program Committee must balance such requests with other program goals; as a result, in some circumstances, requests for sponsored sessions may be rejected. The only exceptions to the review process and three-role rule are the opening and plenary sessions.

Note: All poster sessions are now 2 hours in duration. Please check for the new schedule for these sessions on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday in the Summary Schedule as well as in the Sessions at a Glance.

Past Presented

Archaeological Illustration and the Ancient Americas

Edited by Joanne Pillsbury

$65.00

Illustrations remain one of the fundamental tools of archaeology, a means by which we share information and build ideas. These fourteen essays address the visual presentation of the Pre-Columbian past from the fifteenth century to the present day, exploring the ways in which archaeological illustrations illuminate a specific time and place and how they have shaped the field of archaeology.

Ancient Maya Art at Dumbarton Oaks

Based on the comprehensive study of one of the most important collections of Maya art in the United States, this catalog is an introduction to one of the great traditions of sculpture and painting in ancient America. Scholarly yet accessible, it provides a detailed introduction to Maya art and material culture. Winner of the CAA Alfred Barr Award of 2013.

Merchants, Markets, and Exchange in the Pre-Columbian World

Edited by Kenneth G. Hirth and Joanne Pillsbury

$70.00

Civilization in the pre-Hispanic Americas was characterized by complex political and religious institutions, highly skilled craft production, and the long-distance movement of finished goods. With a focus on the central Mexican highlands, the Maya Lowlands, and the central Andes, essays in this volume examine various aspects of these ancient economies, including marketplaces, merchants, artisans, and the networks through which goods were bought, sold, and exchanged.

Magnetics for Archaeology

Modern geophysical tools provide archaeologists with excellent results discovering new historical areas. GEM's magnetometers and gradiometers offer proven methods for environmentally friendly prospecting. They reduce survey costs, deliver high-volume detailed data, and help plan digs for maximum efficiency. GEM offers archaeological professionals cost-effective, reliable, light-weight systems with GPS options to augment field results.

The GSM-19GW magnetometer / gradiometer offers very high sensitivity plus fast sampling rates

GEM Advanced Magnetometers is a world-leader in supplying reliable, easy-to-use, and accurate instruments for projects in many different environments. Stand-alone systems are available, as well as multi-sensor systems which enable the acquisition of high volumes of data efficiently and at minimal cost.

Visit GEM at Booth #205 to discover more, and for your chance to WIN a new Samsung Galaxy Tab 2!

Our World is Magnetic

Only one archaeological survey tool can give you all this!

The G-858 MagMapper™ offers superior speed, reliability and ease of use for all magnetometer survey projects and more...

As a digital data acquisition system, the G-858 combined with Geometrics' OhmMapper and GPS, makes a complete, multi-parameter mapping system, for the fastest, easiest, and best diagnostic archaeological surveys.

Integrated with GPS, the G-858 system provides fast and efficient data collection. G-858G (gradiometer) in vertical alignment (pictured right) is especially effective in near surface investigations because the gradiometer suppresses the effects of external field variations.

Non-magnetic MagCart for 1 to 5 sensors improves data quality and target analysis for precise mapping of sites.

Visit Geometrics' Archaeological page for case studies and more!

OhmMapper non-contact resistivity system. Fast, easy resistivity without stakes.

Our mapping and interpretation software turns your PC into a personal interactive geophysical workstation. For archaeology, UXO surveys, hazardous waste, utility locating, and void detection, there's no better combination than the MagMapper-OhmMapper system. ## Big Histories, Human Lives Tackling Problems of Scale in Archaeology

Edited by John Robb and Timothy R. Pauketat

"This book is a call to restore grand narratives of change, and the authors are determined to put human beings—who were effectively ignored in systems theories, environmental determinist theories, adaptationism, and functionalism—as central actors in their own histories. Archaeologists: this way forward."

—Norman Yoffee, Senior Fellow, Institute for the Study of the Ancient World, New York University

Paper, ISBN 978-1-934691-64-9, $39.95

2013. 296 pp., 15 figures, 8 maps,

1 table, notes, references, index, 6 x 9

An Archaeology of Doings Secularism and the Study of Pueblo Religion

Severin M. Fowles

In this probing study, Severin Fowles undertakes a sustained critique of religion as an analytical category in archaeological research. Building from a careful dissection of the relationship between secularism, premodernity, and archaeology, Fowles explores just what is at stake in our reconstructions of an enchanted past. In doing so, he offers a detailed examination of the case of Ancestral Pueblo society in the American Southwest, widely regarded in the anthropological literature as a native tradition that was consumed with religious ritual.
