

Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Review Committee Announcements

Congratulations to New Committee Member

On October 10, 2018, Secretary of the Interior Ryan Zinke appointed Francis P. McManamon to the Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Review Committee for a four-year term. Dr. McManamon is the founding director of the Center for Digital Antiquity, an Arizona State University (ASU) center in the School for Human Evolution and Social Change. Before joining ASU in November 2009, Dr. McManamon served as the chief archeologist of the National Park Service and the departmental consulting archeologist for the Department of the Interior in Washington, D.C. Dr. McManamon was nominated by the American Alliance of Museums, American Anthropological Association, and Society for American Archaeology. We welcome the newest member to the Review Committee as we express our deep appreciation to LindaLee Kuuleilani Farm whose term expired in November 2017. On behalf of the Secretary of the Interior and the National NAGPRA Program, we commend Ms. Farm for her dedicated service on the Review Committee and the considerable time, thought, and effort she devoted to the NAGPRA process.

Upcoming Review Committee Meeting

On August 3, 2018, a Federal Register notice was published announcing a meeting of the Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Review Committee.
